CROSBY S. NOYES..... Editor THE EVENING STAR has the fullest Loca Circulation of any Newspaper in the World and as an Advertising Medinus is worth more than all the other papers published in Washington.

New York Office: Room 93, Tribune Building

The bill introduced in the Georgia legislature, at the instigation of the commercial travelers' association, to reduce the charges on sleeping cars is in the interest of a muchneeded reform. It is absurd to claim that there is any necessity for the ruling high prices of berths. Why should a traveler, who pays his regular fare anyway for being carried a certain distance on the train, be taxed besides. for a few hours' use of a narrow berth, with the privilege of a teacupful of water in the morning to wash the cinders out of his eyes and a dab with a linty towel, more money than is asked for a private room, with a comfortable bed and abundant toilet appurtenances, through a whole night and day at a hotel of fair pretensions? The answer which the railroad managers would probably make is that it costs more to run a hotel on the rail than a stationary one. Doubtless it would cost more, if an ordinary hotel were lifted bodily off its foundations and put upon wheels to be dragged from place to place; but the parallel fails when we consider the difference in conditions. Every passenger carried in a sleeping-car is a relief to the burden of a common car. His passage is paid for at the same rate, whether he rides in the one or the other. All the services rendered him in exchange for his extra payment are the use of a cot and a lavatory. When night comes on, the day cars which have been emptied of their passengers are dropped at a convenient station, and sleepers taken on in their stead. The next morning, the sleepers in their turn are dropped and their places supplied with day cars, so that the railroad is not put to the inconvenience or expense of doing double duty for a single fee. The next plea would be, however, that sleepers cost more than ordinary cars to build and keep in repair, and hence must be more expensive to the traveler who avails himself of their privileges. That is true, and no traveler grudges the payment of a reasonable extra fare. But the cost of building is extravagant, and the traveler is therefore taxed for something which he does not want. All the folderol of inlaid woods and bevelled glass and other things which are ornamental solely and have no relation to the comfort or safety of the public, could just as well be dispensed with. A neat, well-kept car, with its interior done in cheerful colors, is all that any reasonable person demands. The cots could be made much less bulky with good effect. The weight, and therefore the danger, of the car might be greatly reduced by changes obvious to every eye. That sleeping-cars are now inordinately profitable is shown by the incomes of the companies that run them; and, without depriving any investor of his righteous dues, it would be quite possible to cut down the burdens of the passenger from thirty to fifty per cent, not only in Georgia, but in most other parts of the Preparations are in progress on the democratic side, for a joint debate between the rival candidates for governor of Massachusetts. This is a form of campaigning deservedly popular in parts of the south and west, and it would be a good thing if it could be adopted all over the country. The average voter would brown, and black then know better for whom and for what he is custing his ballot.

Rejuvenated Pennsylvania avenue fully sustained its reputation yesterday as the model national parade ground. Its broad smooth surface, the vista effects of the Capitol and Treasury, and the gay decorations of the line of march gave to the street, whose surface has been trodden by so many of the republic's great, the features which attract the marching column. The paraders were worthy of the parade ground. No finer representative body of Americans has ever been collected in the national city. The picture presented by the twenty thousand armed and uniformed knights as they marched to stirring music and performed the picturesque evolutions of their drill, exhilarated by the air and sunlight of an almost perfect autumn day, will long be remembered.

Yesterday was given up to enjoyment by the whole city. Today a part of the entertainers go back to work, while the entertained divide their activities between the serious business of the conclave and the scarcely less urgent duty of sight-seeing. In both lines, let us hope that, like worthy knights, every man will do his best. To know thoroughly what the capital of his country is like is as much to be desired by every good American as to interest himself in the well-being of his order is the pleasure of every good freemason.

There is a deal of irreverent comment floating through the columns of the American press on the eccentricity of that New York manufacturer whose will directs that a two-ton boulder be put on top of his grave. The general opinion seems to be that he does not believe in the doctrine of the resurrection. That does not follow, by any means. The more convinced he is of truth of the doctrine, the more repugnance he probably feels at the idea of being resurrected shead of time through human

In those states where the Australian ballot has been adopted, the voting tickets are paid for and distributed by the public authorities, and the bummers who used to earn a few dollars every election day by hanging about the polls and "peddling" find their occupation gone. What a hole all this is going to make in the orthodox balance sheet of candidates who regularly counted on setting down a certain sum to "legitimate expenses" unclassified!

Europe is making herself extremely gloomy through disinterested apprehensions that the Pan-American congress will be a dismal failure. Uncle Sam does not expect or attempt much in this preliminary round, but he will probably get what he seeks, and his advantage in this matter is that of all the American nations. So cheer up, croaking Grandma Europe.

There is one newspaper published in the United States which is probably never quoted, whose editor is not hunted down by angry politicians and indignant sufferers from libellous attack, and which can crack old jokes to its heart's content without the danger of having "chestnute!" shouted in its ear. It is the Sourhantag, the organ of the Armenians in America, and is printed in their native lan-Sir Julian Pauncefote is on his way back to Washington with those daughters of whom so much has been said. If they are all that the letter-writers have described them to be, Sir he wants as far as young America is concerned.

Julian is welcome to all the codfish and seals Who cares for such trifles as these, in comparison with the duty of keeping on terms of the closest cordiality with our dear mother coun-

If all the representatives of the Cleveland this season could cast their ballots there, they would swell the minority vote in Massachusetts next November handsomely.

When a politician has "bitten off more than he can chew," does that afford him a legitimate excuse for "bolting"?

A FEW PLAIN FACTS ABOUT DRUGS. Every one needs Medicine occasionally. Some need a great deal, and to the latter would more

Did it ever occur to you that you are paying too much for your Medicines? Two years ago I had the temerity to inaugurate a crusade against high prices in Drugs, being confident that the business could be successfully managed at a considerably less profit than was then being charged. What a tempest was created you no doubt remember, and what a revolution has been worked you are no doubt aware. That my efforts have been appreciated is evident in the rapid growth of my business. For months past I have been doing the largest Retail Drug Business in the city. But what I wish to my today is in reference to PRESCRIPTIONS

You cannot tell whether you are getting your prescription compounded at fair prices or not, so are, to a certain extent, at the mercy of the druggist. Will not the man who charges you three or four prices for an article whose value you are familiar with be apt to charge you much more in proportion for the prescription that you know nothing about? I claim to be the only Druggist in this city who has a SEPA-RATE ROOM and separate experienced clerks for Prescription work, and I GUARANTEE to compound any Prescription at from fifteen to forty per cent lower than any druggist in Wash-

HEADQUARTERS FOR GLOVES

THE PALAIS ROYAL having made a specialty of Gloves for twelve years is now recognized headquar ters. The stock being as large as any other. Three stores combined and the variety being proportionately as large. A PERFECT FIT IS POSITIVELY AS SURED, which cannot be said where smaller stocks are kept, and for this reason: In order to fit thin and fut hands, long and short Angers, several styles of Gloves have to be kept in each make.

Ladies and gentlemen who have found they cannot obtain Gloves long enough or short enough in the fingers certainly have not tried the "Palais Boyal" Gloves. Again, those who have found their Gloves wrinkle at the back have not been fitted with Gloves sdapted to their hand. And why not?

PALAI RRR OO V Y A L

Since we demonstrate by trying on all "Palais Royal" Gloves that the finish and fit are perfect, and since we hold ourselves responsible for the future wear by guarantee, isn't it evident that the "Palais Royal" Gloves must be the best quality? You ask "why are prices lower than usually charged
